System for thoracolumbar vertebral stabilization

Misano is the first thoracolumbar stabilization system that involves the use of a single pedicle screw for the treatment of degenerative, traumatic or deformity pathologies.

This allows both open and percutaneous surgical techniques. The same screw can be cemented or convey bone substitutes.

The screw is self-tapping and can be introduced without the use of the tap, and has a specific double thread that guarantees rapid implantation and high pedicle sealing.

The system includes a range of hooks, dominoes and connectors as well as the same cannulas of the minimally invasive instruments that can be used for the treatment of deformities.
